

ATVing Gone Awry

Early Saturday afternoon, you receive a phone call from Will Robinson, a student at the site where you are one of two advisors. This site is in the developing world. He reports that another student, Marcia Brady, has been injured in an ATVing accident. She is in the medical clinic of the national park where the medical personnel are recommending surgery for a broken femur in the right arm.

- What else do you want to know?
- What are you going to do?
- Were there any safety strategies (engineering, enforcement, education) that could have prevented this?
