Global Projects Program Policies and Procedures
Applicant Eligibility

- Only sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply for project programs (IQP).
- First-year students can apply only for Humanities and Arts programs, unless they can prove sophomore status (check with the Registrar's Office.)
- A student can apply for a global project while on academic warning but they must improve their academic standing at the next review in order to be eligible to participate in the program. Students who are currently on academic warning may apply to the GPP and may be granted provisional placement in the program. Students who receive provisional placement will undergo a review of their academic record at the next academic review period. Students who are back in good academic standing will be permitted placement in the GPP, and students who are on academic probation will no longer be eligible to participate.
  - It is important to note that the application process for the GPP is competitive and that the strength of a student's academic record is an important consideration when reviewing applicants for any site. The GPP application requires 2 academic references, and students on warning are advised to submit the name of a reference who can speak to how they have responded to the academic difficulties they have encountered and what steps they have taken to better support their studies at WPI.
- Students on academic probation are ineligible to apply to the GPP.
