Researcher Jane Smith Receives Grant to Study Rural Housing OR Professor Jane Smith Receives 2-year ABC Grant

Jane Smith, assistant professor of sociology, has been awarded a $259,564 grant from ABC agency to determine the long-term sociological effects of rural housing developments in Massachusetts.

Smith’s 2-year project will develop new models so housing planners can better create strategies for building new housing in the coming years.

Her project was one of only 5 awarded grants to assess the impacts of new housing developments. It also builds on her previous research about housing in the Midwest United States.

“This is an issue that is becoming more and more important as population changes and expands in New England,” Smith said. “Much remains unknown about how this issue can impact other changes that come with increased population in a particular area.”
