Take the 30-60 second community check-in survey here.

What are you worried about in terms of academics?
What support do you wish you had at this point in D term?
Share your thoughts in the community check-in survey above!

We are also looking for photos of campus - virtual campus included - for the newsletter. Submit them in the check-in.
"Apart has two very opposite meanings. Apart as in 'I was apart from the group' or a part as in 'I was a part of the group.' How brilliant is that? I think it really tells us something about what we're going through right now. We feel isolated from each other but we're all just a few clicks or taps away...Change your interpretation of "apart."

Be a part of something; a project, a group, someone's life.

Think Ahead Checklist:

- Fight the stress of midterms with your schedule. During midterms it is easy to get into unhealthy routines and stop self-care. Use your schedule to build in time for fun, sleep, food, and connection with others. Check out Be Well Together 3.0 and the Library's Mindfulness and Destress Guide. Taking time for yourself will make your study time more productive.

- For those wanting to study virtually with others, StudySMART is back!
Join us from anywhere in the world! For those on campus, don't forget about on campus study spaces including classrooms.

- Curious about registering for classes in Workday? Register and attend a demo about registration for next fall. Look at the calendar for multiple dates including 4/15 at 10am.

- Events of Interest: 4/12-13 Film Screening of Coded Bias; 4/12-4/13 Research, Discovery and Innovation (ReDI) Annual Symposium.

- Use your resources including office hours, TAs/PLAs, Be Well Together, MASH, Tutoring, the Writing Center, coaching by Academic Advising, the SDCC, Office of Accessibility Services, and more.
• Registration for summer classes is now open to WPI students! With classes and projects 50% off, explore options and register in BannerWeb.

• Check out what happened in Open Space last week. Save the afternoon of 5/5 for the next gathering to have your voice heard.
