Take the 30-60 second community check-in survey here.

Reflecting on C Term!
As C term comes to an end, what strategies do you want to keep doing in D term?
What could you do differently to improve D term and lower stress?
Share your thoughts in the community check-in survey above!
We are also looking for photos of campus - virtual campus included - for the newsletter. Submit them in the check-in.
"Ring the bells that still can ring.
Forget your perfect offering.
There is a crack in everything.
That's how the light gets in."

Rejuvenate and Reflect Checklist:
Congratulations!! You are just about done with C term, a term that is always challenging. You’ve done a great job!
The Office of Undergraduate Studies is cheering you on as you finish up!

- To finish the term strong:
  - Plan out your last 4 days with studying, office hours, tutoring, breaks, and meals.
  - Reach out to professors if you’re concerned about how you’re doing. You can also share concerns in the community check-in.
  - Cheer on your peers - in group chats, class Slack channels, StudySMART, and more.

- Brainstorm a plan for how you want to rejuvenate during the break. Do you need time where you unplug and turn your phone on silent? Make safe plans with friends? Craft? Workout? A student in the check-in recommends checking out Spotify podcasts.

- Take an hour or two during the break to reflect on C term. What went well? Ask your friends what worked for them. What could you have improved on? Write down (and share) ideas for a better D term.
  Start sharing your thoughts in this week's community check-in.
  - This term, we heard from students feeling burned out. We also heard from students who felt they had found their stride. Reflecting now will help both groups know how to enter D term strong and stay strong.
